

Washington State Pear and Apple Harvest BulletinSeptember 9, 2010

This pear and apple harvest bulletin is informational only and is not intended for recruitment.

Bartlett pear harvest season is winding down with the picking of d'anjou pears just starting.

Picking of early varieties of apples has started in most parts of the state and will be followed closely by the Golden and Red Delicious harvest. Peak harvest is expected to occur from mid-September to late October. Some apple harvest activities will continue into early November.

The major pear and apple fruit producing areas are located in:

- North-Central Washington (Chelan, Okanogan, Grant and Douglas counties)
- South-Central Washington (Yakima, Kittitas, Klickitat and Skamania counties)
- Southeast Washington (Walla Walla, Benton and Franklin counties)

The U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates that the total Washington state apple crop (fresh and processed) will total 134.5 million 40 pound equivalent units (2.7 million tons), which is up approximately 4.6 percent from a year ago. The Washington state tree fruit industry estimates that the "fresh apple" crop alone will total 108.8 million 40 pound equivalent boxes, which is a record.

Housing information

The State Migrant Housing facility located in Monitor will be available again this year. Farm worker housing at the Vista del Rio, Sage Bluff and Columbia Pointe facilities located in and around the Wenatchee area will be available for the 2010 pear and apple harvest season. In addition, the Oroville Housing Camp in the Okanogan area will be open for the 2010 pear and apple harvest season. Housing availability is improving, but still remains scarce in some areas.
